Airfix Competition Judging Definitions

- Basic Construction: this is defined as the building of the entry eg are the gaps filled up, seams removed,
- Basic Painting: this is defined as the quality of the finished paint job , and if it is in the correct colours for that role and theatre of operation.
- Basic Finishing: this is defined as the overall completeness of the entry in terms of appearance: does it have rigging, are the decals on straight?
- Conversion : this is defined as work carried out to change the original kit so that it is substantially different to the original eg single seater converted to two seater. This can be kit bashing, scratch building, etc.
- Modification: this is defined as work carried out to improve a kit or kit part eg dropped flaps, canted rudder, opened canopy, opened gun bays, folded wings.
- Creativity: is there an innovative trick or technique to achieve the finished entry eg kitchen foil for bare metal finish
- Gutsiness : this is defined as building a difficult kit, or doing a difficult paint scheme , or doing a difficult modification or conversion eg all panels opened
- Realism: this is defined as how accurate this compares to the real aircraft or setting (historically), showing off oil leaks , streaks, exhaust stains, whether the finished model is correct for that version and role and markings,

- Others: these will be additional to the model eg using a diorama to create an appealing setting where the aircraft is operating. The same criteria above will be applied and the additional together with the model will be treated as a whole, so more things means possibly more points (or more penalties).

Notes: Judges will apply these general elements to all aspects of judging. Note that at the end of the day the judges are looking for examples of good modelling; a badly constructed entry will not get very far even if its got a fantastic paint job, or even if its placed in a beautiful diorama setting!

- c) ALL JUDGES' DECISIONS ARE FINAL and no appeals, discussions, arguments, correspondence, or demands for a recount will be entertained.
- d) Entries will be on display for public viewing from 10am - 3pm onwards from 10th December 2022. Prize presentation will be held at 2pm on Saturday 10th December 2022.
- e) Organisers will not be liable for any loss or damage to any models that occur during the whole period of the event.

4) Prize Presentation

- a) The prize presentation ceremony will be held at 2.00pm on Saturday, 10th December 2022 at the Woodlands Regional Library Auditorium in B1/B2.
